There is a wonderful new museum in Newport, filled with history, original paintings.

Because of a vote by two members of the city council, you may not visit the museum or see the paintings.

The museum is located in the first floor of the beautifully restored Vernon Court, a historic mansion on Bellevue Avenue between Victoria and Shepard avenues. Vernon Court was purchased about a year ago by Laurence and Judy Cutler, who have had it restored and restored to its original splendor. Laurence Cutler is an internationally respected architect, scholar, author and art collector. Judy Cutler is an art dealer and collector with studios in New York. She also is an author and teacher. The Cutlers plan to make Vernon Court their home, living in the upper part of the building. They have not yet decided on the first floor except to present some of their famous paintings to the public.

It should be noted that the Cutlers own and are prepared to display the world's largest and most significant private collection of original work from what has been called the Golden Age of American Illustration. The collection includes the work of such artists as N.C. Wyeth, Charles Dana Gibson, J.C. Leyendecker and others. Many of the paintings were created for magazines such as Saturday Evening Post, Life, Collier's, or the Saturday Review of Literature. Most of the paintings are too large to display all at once. About 35 paintings can be displayed. They will be rotated to present various aspects of these exciting artists over time.

The fact that a museum such as this was not opened to the public as soon as possible is due to the 1980 deadline news in cities around the world and, at first, it seemed that this city would be no exception. We are pleased to have a new museum.

No one was pleased to hear the Cutlers and their proposal. There was no reason not to like what was planned. The Cutlers knew what the city wanted and were prepared to offer it.

For example, unlike other museums and museums, the Cutlers did not seek turn Vernon Court over to the foundation to avoid paying property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.

The Cutlers carefully developed a plan to restore Vernon Court and presented it in a format that would not conflict with any building or property taxes. It remained on the tax rolls. Records at City Hall show the Cutlers will pay $4,859 in property taxes this year. Size of the building, will be run by a foundation established by the Cutlers.